VOL. XIII THE MIDDLEBURY CAMPUS, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1917 No. 19

MIDD'S ACTIVITIES IN WAR SERVICE

How We Are Helping to Make Life A Little More Endurable in the Camps, Trenches, and on Board Ship

Organized effort has been active ever since last spring to find out the peculiar needs of Middlebury men who have offered themselves in response to the great call of the nation or who have been selected from among their fellows to fill the quota for their respective districts, and having found the need it has undertaken as best it may to meet it with the limited resources at its disposal.

Since few are conversant with the activities of the War Service Committee- an attempt is here made to describe in greater detail than heretofore the work that is being done. In another column is a complete list, corrected as nearly as possible to date with mailing directions, of 150 men in the service who have at one time or another been affiliated with the college. This list was started in June, and its present state of completion has been secured through hard work and pains-taking effort. The various members of the Committee were at work all summer upon it and as soon as the Committee was reorganized in the fall the real work began. From various sources of authoritative information from the International Y. M. C. A., the most urgent needsof the soldiers and sailors were ascertained.

It has been found that the college paper and personal letters fill the great general need of all the men. Letters have been sent to each one explaining the aims of the Committee and asking numerous questions to cover all the needs that can be supplied by it. The replies are interesting and instructive. Some have asked for sweaters, socks, helmets, and other knitted goods, while others crave home-made cooking of a sort impossible to secure in the camps. One man asked for several geographies for the purpose of instructing others. These the Committee secured. In fact, arrangements have been made to supply all of these special wants so far as they are reasonable. The Women's Civics Club has voted to devote its entire energies during the coming year to knitting and cooking to meet the needs of the War Service Committee. It is well to state for the benefit of those who might be inclined to fear that this method of knitting would be too expensive that the Committee has been granted permission to buy yarn at the regular Red Cross rates.

But after all, the thing which the men appreciate the most is the letters which are sent them regularly. The Committee has arranged that every man shall be taken care of in this respect and a regular personal correspondence has been maintained. Numerous replies are continually coming in expressing their gratitude for this service. In addition, The Campus is being sent by the Committee to all who

To the Alumni:—

The War Service Committee is continually discovering from the communications reaching it from the men in camps here and there in our own country, and particularly, from the trenches "somewhere" in France or Italy, that the home letters are often meaning more to weary and sometimes homesick soldiers than even sweaters, kits, or a taste of home-made cooking. Write a letter newsy and hopeful to some boy who may have gone from your village or town. Even if you did not know him well—it will count all the more if you did not—sit down and send him a word of encouragement and friendly cheer. Could you read the words of appreciation of such letters on file at the Committee rooms, you would not hesitate to offer this small service to those who have gone out to fight our battles for us.

MYRON R. SANFORD.
Chairman, War Service Committee.

Excerpta Litteris Militum

The War Service Committee has compiled a few extracts from the many letters which have been received during the past month and a half. These have been selected from among all ranks in the service, and they speak for themselves. They will convey only a meagre picture of the longing of these men for letters from home and college, and hint at the large opportunities for those who remain to brighten the lives of our men in the camps, trenches, and on board ship. Many others of a similar nature have been received by the Committee.

"I wish to thank your committee for sending me The Campus which I assure you I am very glad to receive and I am sure the same is true of all the Middlebury men in service."

Bigadier General Foote '83.

"Your committee is certainly on the jump. It baffles me entirely how you could have found out I'm in this camp. You're doing fine work! better than some enlisted men. I received a Campus which had a list of the men in actual service. That list is worth a good deal to me for it has located some of my best friends of whom I had lost trace since leaving college."

"You all back there in old Midd are certainly doing a great and good work and you may be sure that it is appreciated. I read The Campus from cover to cover with a great deal of interest."

Dr. Winfield S. Hall, head of the Department of Physiology in Northwestern University writes:

"I am sure you will be interested and gratified to know that the activities of just such organizations as the one you represent are working to build up and maintain a high morale in our troops."

"The idea of sending The Campus to the men is a fine idea. It's the first one I'd had since leaving college and you can imagine with what pleasure I read it."

EDITORIAL.

It has seemed advisable to devote this issue to the interests of War Service for several reasons. The war and its needs are commanding increasingly the attention and services of men and women the country over, and aside from the demand for food stuffs and munitions of war, the greatest problem before the American people is the proper care of our soldiers and sailors.

Middlebury College is particularly interested in this phase of the problem by virtue of more than 160 of her sons who are in the service of their country. This already has been shown by the intense interest that animated the Friendship Fund campaign of a week ago. We are not as directly concerned with the great economic problems of production as we are with the personal welfare of our friends to whom we are bound by college ties.

At this season the situation is growing more acute, and therefore demands a loyal response to its claims. Our men are realizing as never before the significance of Alma Mater in their lives. Many who were thought to be indifferent while in college have become animated by a spirit which we who remain can scarcely comprehend—a spirit of rekindled devotion to the old college and heart-felt appreciation for its services. This, one is compelled to infer from the numerous letters that are constantly coming in.

The War Service Committee is the organization which is the active medium of exchange for those who wish to help and those who are in the greatest need of it. The students and alumni are not yet fully alive to the work which this committee is doing or its urgent need of loyal support. It is fitting, therefore, that we emphasize this most important phase of our college life.

Civics Club in War Work

The Civics Club has undertaken the direction of the knitting to be done by the women of the college for the Middlebury men in the service. Their program for the year will be war work entirely, and membership is open to every girl in college. The officers for the year are as follows: President, Goldie Courtemanche; vice-president, Bessie Jennings; secretary-treasurer, Ella Fellowes.

TO OUR MEN IN THE SERVICE

The Campus is endeavoring to serve your interests in every way possible, for your interests are those of the college as well. The Government has planned liberally for your welfare, and many of you are in a position to show your appreciation of the services rendered you by the college in a very practical way, yet one which will not require much sacrifice on your part.

This publication goes to every Middlebury man in the service whose address is known, whether he is a subscriber or not. This is made possible by the War Service Committee which pays full rates for every paper sent out. It will therefore be clear to you that by paying your subscription to The Campus you will release the full subscription rate of $2.00 for the Committee to use where it is most needed. Your subscription at this time will not benefit The Campus, but it will aid your brothers under the colors and your college. Why not pay your own subscription?

LETTERS ON FILE

Many letters have been received by various members of the college and of the War Service Committee, some of which will be of interest to all, while others will particularly appeal to individuals. All of these are carefully kept on file by the War Service Committee and are open to all who are interested enough to read them.

In order that these letters may be readily accessible, the Committee has established the following hours which will be carefully observed. The office on the first floor in south Painter Hall will be open from 5 to 6 on every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Members of the college and friends are strongly urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to read these letters. In addition, the Committee will be glad to furnish the address of any man in the service at any time.

Why don't you answer some of these letters?

COMMUNICATION

Government in Need of Stenographers and Typewriters

The Editor.

Sir:

The Commission requests, on behalf of the American people, that you publish in your journal as frequently as you can, as an item of news, a notice of the war need of the Government for stenographers and typewriters, as set forth in the enclosed announcement. The difficulty in securing a sufficient number of stenographers and typewriters for the unusual demands of the Government is giving the Commission great concern.

The Commission takes this opportunity to thank you for the assistance you have already given it in meeting the war demands of the civil service.

By direction of the Commission:

Very respectfully,
JOHN A. McILHENNY.
President.

PROFESSOR DEAN OF VERMONT LECTURES BEFORE OUTING CLUB

Shows Numerous Slides of Green Mountain Trail

"The Green Mountain Club and the Long Trail" was the subject on which Professor Theron Dean talked last Thursday evening in the Hemicycle. Mr. Dean, who is chairman of the publicity committee of the Green Mountain Club, came to Middlebury at the request of the Outing Club to explain to the students and members of the faculty the work and aims of his organization. According to Mr. Dean, twenty-two men, mostly school teachers, met in March of the year 1910 to organize a society which would lay open the wooded mountains of Vermont for hiking parties. For this purpose the club has begun a trail which is to extend from North Adams, Mass., to Pinnacle Peak, Canada, through the densest forests of Vermont and over her highest mountains. The aim of the club is to build a trail which will afford less climbing for hikers and yet will give to the traveler frequent and unimpeded views of the surrounding country. This aim has been carried out as far as possible up to the present extent of the trail. Another characteristic of this route is the avoidance of large towns and villages. On one stretch of the trail one can hike for six or seven days, or a distance of sixty or seventy miles, without encountering a settlement of very large size. But this does not mean that food and shelter cannot be obtained for this distance; on the contrary, cabins have been built and an agreement has been made with many farmers along the route to accommodate all users of this trail.

An added feature of the evening was the flashing of many beautifully colored slides, one hundred and fifteen in number, on the white wall of the Hemicycle by means of a stereopticon. These were mostly views taken along the trail and vividly showed the picturesque country through which the trail extends.

Outing Club Elects Officers

A meeting of the Outing Club was held in Hepburn Social Hall Tuesday evening, October 30, for the election of officers. Over thirty outing enthusiasts were present. Professor Lawrence presided until the vice-president was elected, the one elected president not attending the meeting.

Professor Lawrence informed the meeting that the Green Mountain Club has suggested that our club affiliate with it and so share somewhat in its larger opportunities and interests. He said that personally he had not yet made up his mind as to whether such a move would be wise, but that the members might well be thinking it over.

The following officers were elected: President, Jones '19; vice-president, Heath '20; secretary, Miesse '20; treasurer, Hamilton '19; Canfield was elected chairman of the Hike Committee and was empowered to choose others to work with him. Hamilton reminded the members that the prompt payment of dues was desired.

Letter From Taylor '20

A letter has been received from Willard G. Taylor '20, who is driving an ambulance in the French army. Owing to lack of space this week the letter will be published entire in the next issue. It contains many interesting incidents relative to this branch of the service.

Problem of College Students

BY

HON. NEWTON D. BAKER, SECRETARY OF WAR.

[From the Patriotic News Service, of the National Committee of Patriotic Societies, Washington, D. C.]

When the call to national service arose, spirited young men everywhere of course wanted to be employed in a patriotic way, and I suppose there is scarcely a young man in any college in the country who has not very anxiously addressed to himself the question:

"What can I do?"

I think that there is no general answer to this question. Even in those cases where it would be obviously better for a young man to stay at college and prepare himself for later and fuller usefulness, yet if the young man in so doing acquires a low view of his own courage, and feels that he was electing the less worthy course, the effect on the young man of that state of mind toward his own actions probably would be so prejudicial that it ought not to be encouraged.

To the extent that the men in college are physically disqualified, or to the extent that they are too young to meet the requirements of the department, it seems quite clear that in the present state of the emergency their major usefulness lies in remaining in the college, going forward with their academic work. The knowledge that the students will acquire at college will equip them for subsequent usefulness if the emergency lasts until their call comes.

But we do not want to chill enthusiasm. We want to preserve enthusiasm and cultivate it and use it; but we do want to be discriminating in our enthusiasm, and prevent people getting the notion that they are not helping the country unless they do something different, which very often is not the case at all. The largest usefulness may come from doing the same thing. Now, it is not unnatural that there should be these ebullitions of feeling, this desire to change occupation as a badge of changed service and devotion to ideals. Our colleges can exercise a steadying influence in this regard.

We are going to have losses in battle; our communities are going to be subjected to the rigid discipline of multiplied personal griefs scattered all through the community, and we are going to search the cause of those back to their foundation, and our feelings are going to be torn and our nerves made raw. There is a place for physicians of public opinion to exercise a curative impulse. The young men who are in our colleges, who go to their homes from our colleges and make up a very large part of the direction of public opinion, can exercise a curative influence by preaching the doctrine of tolerance, by exemplifying the fact that it is not necessary for a nation like the United States, which is fighting for the vindication of a great ideal, to discolor its purpose by hatreds or by the entertainment of any unworthy emotion.

One of our men in the Army Y. M. C. A. writes as follows:

"I said to one chap in the hospital yesterday, 'Anything I can do for you, Billy?' He replied that he wished I would look up his mail as he hadn't heard from home in a long time. 'Time goes pretty slow when you're away from home and sick too,' he added.

In connection with the above, the following is of special interest:

"Your letter came to me while I was laid up in the hospital and I was indeed glad to hear from you."

"I think your War Service Committee a fine thing and I feel sure you will do much to cheer up the boys at the front, who I fear will need a lot of cheering before the war is over."

"It sure seems mighty fine to hear from dear old Midd, and I would like very much to receive a personal letter from time to time."

"These letters will help us fight our battles better."

FRESHMEN TRIM SOPHOMORES

On Saturday, November 10, at 2:30, the freshmen took revenge for the football defeat, suffered at the hands of the sophomores, by an overwhelming victory in track with the score 70 to 25.

Brouwer '21 led in the higest individual scoring, securing 24 points for the freshman class. Ably supported by Olson and Captain Brown in the sprints, Richardson in the distance runs, and Jewett in the weights, the freshmen soon had a lead that was never endangered. Canfield secured 8 points for the sophomores and Vroom 8 1-3 points.

The strength of the freshmen was due mainly to their well balanced team; they placed three men in the 440-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 120-yard low hurdles, and the hammer throw. They amassed a total of 8 1st places, 5 2nds and 6 3rds besides a tie for first in the high jump.

Due to the cold weather and a strong wind no track records were in danger of being broken. But in spite of the disagreeable weather several young ladies graced the contest with their presence. Much friendly rivalry existed in this section between the members of the two classes.

To crown a most successful afternoon, the team representing the freshman class defeated the sophomore team in a special 880 yard relay race, by 15 yards, counting 5 points for the winner.

The entire program was run off rapidly and without a hitch.

BOYNTON TOO MUCH FOR MIDD

Quarterback Stars In Williams' Victory Over Middlebury 39-7

"Too much Boynton" has been the story after every game Williams has played this year, and last Saturday was no exception when Williams defeated Midd on Weston Field by the score of 39 to 7. Boynton, the mighty quarterback of the Williams eleven, starred thruout the entire game scoring four touchdowns and making a number of sensational runs after several of the Blue and White players had made attempts to tackle him. The Midd eleven fought hard, but it was no match for the superior team work of the Massachusetts eleven which has yet to taste defeat this season.

Williams kicked off. Midd could not make any gain against the Purple line and Parker punted. In a few minutes Williams had scored her first touchdown when Boynton went thru left tackle. He failed to kick the goal. By a series of line plunges and a forward pass Boynton again went over for a touchdown. Williams had the Blue team bewildered and rolled up two more touchdowns before the half was over.

The third period looked as if it was going to be a repetition of the other two but Midd rallied and held her opponents for downs on the twenty-eight yard line. Midd's backfield then began a drive against the Williams line and soon had the ball on Williams' two yard line. As the small crowd of Middlebury rooters were yelling for a touchdown the whistle blew and the quarter ended. On the first play in the last quarter Keppler took the ball over for Midd's touchdown and then kicked the goal. This was the one feature of Middlebury's playing during the entire game. She had torn thru the Williams line and had completed two pretty forward passes. Williams started another series of line plunges, end runs, and forward passes scoring another touchdown. Just as the whistle blew, Strong kicked the goal.

As usual Myrick and Dake fought hard for Old Midd on the line while Keppler played a good defensive and offensive game in the backfield.

are not themselves subscribers. This, also, has been found a most efficient means of serving them.

The work is expanding daily, and the opportunities presented are almost limitless. As new problems arise, new methods are found for their solution. Administering this work is no small part of the problem. The fields are truly white unto the harvest, with a plenty to do for all who have willing hands.

ALBANY LAW SCHOOL

The course of study leading to the degree of L. L. B. extends over a period of three years. students who have pursued one or two years in a law office may enter the second year class as a candidate for a diploma but not a degree.

The high standard of the school and the facilities which the city affords with its legislature, libraries and courts, offer unequalled opportunity for a thorough and practical training.

The senior-sophomore football game, which was to have been played this Wednesday, has heen postponed until next week, in order not to interfere with varsity practice.

Much to everybody's disgust the five minute bells before classes have not been heard this fall at Hepburn Hall. As a direct result many half-cuts have been recorded in the Assistant Dean's office against the names of some of the young men who live in that dormitory. It is too bad that when the bells are already there, enough electricity cannot be supplied to ring them.
